COMMUNITY CENTER PLANNED; ANNOUNCE BENEFIT DINNER

DINNER DANCE WILL BE HELD NEXT FRIDAY

CHAIRMAN CONANT OF C. OF C. COMMITTEE TELLS OF PLANS

Here is something really worth while and in which everyone in Lakeside should be interested.

A benefit to raise funds for the reconditioning of the old Lakeside Grammar School and converting it into a Community Center will be held Friday, July 28, from 5:30 to 8 o'clock, at the old school house.

This benefit is sponsored by all the Lakeside organizations that wish for a community center.

COMMUNITY HALL IS GREATLY NEEDED

Stanley Conant, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Com mittee, is in charge of the affair. He states that a delicious dinner will be prepared for everyone at a most reasonable price. As all the food is being donated the charge will be just enough to cover expenses. As a community hall is much needed Mr. Conant urges all the residents of Lake side and vicinity to be present and learn what improvements are being planned for the old school building and grounds.

After the dinner there will be dancing and free entertainment

PLAN CAMERA CLUB FOR LAKESIDE

Lakeside undoubtedly has a number of amateur photographers. The suggestion has been made that a camera club be formed here. In other places such groups have been of much interest to the members. Any persons who would like to form such a club locally are invited to call at The Farmer office and see Arthur Graham.

Mr. Graham is an enthusiastic and clever photographer. He has on display, on one of the walls in this newspaper office, examples of his work which are excellent. They include views taken in and approaching Lindo Lake Park that are most attractive.

Recreation Center Features For Week Will Interest All

Gavin Suffers Loss In Descanso Fire

Ray Gavin suffered a serious loss the other day when a barn on his ranch at Descanso burned. Seventy tons of hay were consumed and several sets of harness. A colt also lost its life in the fire. The loss is estimated at $1400; no insurance.

LEADS ORCHESTRA AT SAN DIEGO

DR. NIKOLAI SOKOLOFF

Famed Conductor Who Leads Midsummer Night Symphony Concerts in San Diego.

The fourth of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association concerts will be given in the Ford Bowl, Balboa Park, tonight, Friday July 21. John Walsh, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Walsh of San Diego, will sing. William Grant Still will be guest conductor. Next Tuesday E. Robert Schmitz, distinguished French pianist, will be featured.

Lakeside people who attended the concert last Tuesday evening speak highly of the performance. Rudolph Ganz, eminent Swiss pianist, was guest soloist.

Six more concerts are to be given, one each on Tuesday and Friday of each week up to and including August 11.

Fish Spine Cuts Into Man's Finger

This is a fish story that has a point to it but no joke. The fish didn't get away but did get the best of it.

Charles Lucas of Lakeside Farms is today recovering the full use of both hands after an encounter with one of those fish which has sharp spines on its fins.

Mr. Lucas and son Charles, both enthusiastic fishermen, went to Lake Henshaw for a day's sport. While Mr. Lucas was grasping one of the fish he caught a spine penetrated one of his fingers to the bone. For several days Mr. Lucas has had to do the chores with one hand wrapped in a bandage.

Riggle Opens Fine Store in El Cajon

W. Riggle, father of Mrs. Huffman of the department store here, opened last Friday in El Cajon, the W. Riggle Department Store. Before he came to Lakeside, Mr. Riggle was in business in El Cajon for years and he has been welcomed back there by many friends. His store occupies its new building on East Main street at Mollison avenue. A grand opening sale started last Friday. The El Cajon Valley News speaks of the store as "an important addition to El Cajon Valley business."

TON WEIGHT HORSES SHOWN AT CORONADO

The 12th annual Coronado National Horse Show, most successful in the history of this enterprise, will close with matinee and evening performances Saturday and Sunday.

Stake events will feature the concluding performances. Saturday night there will be two $500 stakes, for hunters and hackney ponies, and two $250 stakes, for three-gaited horses under 15.2, and roadsters.

OFFICIALS OF COUNTY MEET LOCAL MEN

CHAMBER MEMBERS SUGGEST CHANGES IN PARK PLANS

Lindo Park improvements were the subject of a conference held Wednesday at the Lakeside Chamber of Commerce quarters between county officials and members of the chamber. Harry H. Waugh, head of San Diego County Property Department and L. W. Deewall, head of the County Planning Commission, met with Attorney Allen Mitchell president of the Lakeside organization; Secretary N. Sands Director Bob Swearengin and Otis Barker.

The county officials came to explain and discuss the new plans which have been drawn up for the park. Several changes were suggested by Chamber of Commerce members. Mr. Deewall said he would have these made and then send a copy of the revised plans to the Chamber of Commerce so that they might be seen by all interested persons.

FUNDS VERY LOW WAUGH REPORTS

Mr. Waugh explained that funds are very limited and only a few improvements can be made at this time.

The actual need of proper sanitary arrangements for the trailer camp grounds was stressed by the Chamber of Commerce officials.

Mr. Waugh said he thought that when his September budget is made he will be able to allot enough for this purpose.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce were glad to receive this visit from the county planners as it afforded evidence of the latter's desire to see that improvements are made at Lindo Park, especially in regard to the trailer camp conditions. Additional sanitary accommodations are imperative, the local men pointed out.

Unified Services at Community Church

Beginning this Sunday, July 23, Unified services start at the Community Church. Sunday School begins at the regular time, 9:45 a.m. and Church begins at 10:30 a.m. Both services close at 11:15. Take advantage of the short service during the summer months and be faithful, is the request of the Rev. T. Nalbach. The pastor will start a series of talks around the principal cities of Palestine, and their importance in spiritual living and thinking.

SANTEE MAN REPORTS DAIRYMEN TO MEET

How to raise good dairy calves, and how much it costs will be the topic of the July meeting of San Diego County dairymen, according to Hugh Good, Santee, chairman of the Dairymen's Department of the Farm Bureau. The meeting will be held at the Trussell Bros. dairy, San Marcos, 10:00 a.m., July 26th.

Dr. Roberts, County Veterinarian, will discuss calf scours, treatment and prevention. F. W. Dorman, assistant Farm Advisor, will discuss the cost of raising dairy heifers to freshening age.

HAM AND' MEETING

The Ham and Eggs group announces that a meeting will be held at the Lakeside Union Schoolhouse Monday, July 31.

Famous Painting at Fair

This outstanding Jean Marc Nattier work, "Mme. Sophie de France as a Vestal Virgin," on exhibition in the Fine Arts Palace of the Golden Gate International Exposition, is but one of thousands of equally well-known paintings which will be on exhibit until the end of the Fair. The painting is on loan from the William Randolph Hearst collection.

ENLARGEMENT OF POST OFFICE COMPLETED BY LAKESIDE BANK

TEN BY THIRTY FOOT EXPANSION INCREASES PUBLIC CONVENIENCE AND IMPROVEMENTS ARE ALSO MUCH APPRECIATED BY THE STAFF

Completion this week of the addition to the Lakeside postoffice adds a real improvement which the many patrons will certainly welcome.

Lakeside postoffice has had its face lifted and its interior decorated; it has been enlarged instead of reduced, has had its wrinkles smoothed and its walls painted and now Postmaster Thomas F. Helm and his courteous staff are welcoming the patrons in a post office which is really a pleasant place It is certain that those responsible for the enlargement and redecoration of the postoffice have carried out the injunction to "brighten up the corner where you are."

The Lakeside Commercial and Savings Bank, owners of the building, have provided a 10x30 feet addition and Postmaster Helm has put in new equipment including forty new boxes. This makes a total of 240 boxes of which 185 are rented. That's pretty good for a town of this size, isn't it?

LOBBY ENLARGED; WINDOW IS ADDED

Then the lobby in the enlarged postoffice is really something to boast about. You can move around in it; and, "when two or three are gathered together" they don't fill the whole space. The postoffice is the most widely used place in Lake side. There's always a crowd there around mail time and people like to pass the time of day and exchange news within the lobby.

Among the improvements is an extra window through which business can be transacted. If there's a rush three windows can be opened now. The new one is larger than the others. And it gives you a view into the interior of the postoffice enabling you to see that there has been re-arrangement in there which improves the look. The 10x30 extension has enabled Mr. Helm and the staff to "dress up" the place and has taken away that look of being too crowded which the postoffice formerly had.

POSTMASTER FARLEY SENDS GOOD WISHES

Curiously enough this week, when the addition made to the postoffice by the bank owners of the building is completed, there comes from Washington a pamphlet giving a brief history of the United States postal service. Along with it is a fine photograph of the Postmaster General, signed by him and bearing the following message: "To Thomes F. Helm, Postmaster, with every good wish, JAMES A. FARLEY."

For this much appreciated addition the bank let the contract to John E. Leng. Material was furnished by Lakeside Builders Supply Co.

The staff at the postoffice is composed of the following: Thomas F. Helm, postmaster Mrs. Thomas F. Helm, asssistant postmaster; Miss Frances M. Burtch, Ralph E. Hunt, RFD carrier; Leslie J. Clevenger, substitute RFD carrier.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley entertained Miss Dorothy Roberts, and Claire Partner of Los Angeles over the weekend. They spent Sunday at Tia Juana.

SCHOOL CHIEF IS BACK FROM CONVENTION

ATTENDS NATIONAL EDUCATION MEET AT SAN FRANCISCO

E. H. Carender, District Superintendent Lakeside Union Schools, returned last week from San Francisco where he attended the annual meeting of the National Education Association and also the special conference of school principals of the nation.

After his return home Mr. Carender, who believes in the adage "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," attended the baseball duel where the Padres split a doubleheader with Los Angeles. Accompanying him were Mrs. Carender and son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Carender of San Diego.

The meetings of the nation's teachers in San Francisco were of great interest to the delegates to the 77th annual convention of the National Education Association. The addreses and debates attracted national attention. But the baseball game was something else; there was stirring action seen by 12,000 "frantic, wildeyed fans," to quote one sports writer. Quite a change from the comparative calm of an NEA meeting.

Unpaid Assessments Listed by District

Delinquent assessment lists of various irrigation districts in San Diego County are being published, as required by law. Last week La Mesa Scout published the list for La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District. It took up more than eight pages. A special edition of the Scout was necessary.

This week Lakeside Farmer publishes the list for Lakeside Irrigation District. In accordance with the requirement of the Act, Thomas F. Helm, collector, gives notice that unless the assessments are paid on or before 10 a.m. of August 14 the property upon which they are liens will be sold at public auction at the office of the district on Main street, commencing at the hour mentioned above and in the manner provided by law.

SALE OF TWO FARMS

Sale of two farms in this area is reported by L. G. Scott. One is the Lester L. Hunt ranch on Hillside Drive, Lakeside Farms, which has been bought by George H. Kehew of San Diego. The Cameron ranch of 10½ acres has been sold by California Lands Inc. to Phillip Sanger of Santa Ysabel.

Lakeside Woman Pleads for School to Give Scientific Training in Democracy

Need for scientific as well as idealistic training in the function of Democracy in a Republican form of government is stressed by Mrs. Marie Fitzgerald of Hopelo Lodge, Lakeside, is a paper which discusses National Events.

Mrs. Fitzgerald observes that there are schools of Communism, Nazi-ism, of Fascism in this country but not a "special school of our own nationalism." She also says:

"To permit the agents of foreign nations to establish their schools of nationalism right in the midst of our country may be in conformity with the right of free speech, press, and assembly, but to do this while neglecting to establish with equal vigor a school of our own nationalism for the purpose of creating a balance of ideas among our own citizens is an error to be excused only on the grounds of carelessness."

Further Mrs. Fitzgerald remarks: "The fact that a special school of our own nationalism has not been established may be attributed to the general impression that our public schools and colleges are serving in that capacity as far as is needed." She points out that was true in the early days of the country's development but not in this age of "economic dominance." She adds:

"It is of little avail that all the people, both the great leaders of our economic systems and the rank and file, have been educated in our public schools and colleges in the ideals of Democracy when at the same time they have not ben taught to agree upon adequate methods of economic adjustment and control. Had the people received scientific as well as idealistic training in the function of Democracy in a Republican form of government they would not have become so negative and careless as they are now proving themselves to be."

Roosevelt Defers Neutrality Fight

Since the Washington Letter on page two was printed word comes from Washington that President Roosevelt has agreed to party leaders and senators requests that neutrality law revision be postponed until the next session of Congress. Vice President Garner convinced him that senators are not disposed to devote a month to debating neutrality.

Farm Bureau Home Department Makes Attractive Plans for Social Event

Most attractive plans for the Social which the Home Department of the Farm Bureau is giving Saurday, July 29th, at 8:00 P. M. in the Sequoia Club, 4th and Elm Streets, San Diego, have been completed by Mrs. Anna Merle Panosh, County Chairman of the Home Department.

At the County Committee meeting of the Home Department of the Farm Bureau held at the Farm Bureau Camp in the Laguna Mountains on Tuesday, July 18th, Mrs. Panosh told of the many table and door prizes. Refreshments will be served after the bridge, "500" and Chinese Checkers. Tables are being sold at 25c per corner, or $1.00 per table, and Farm Bureau people and their friends are urged to go and join in the fun. Reservations should be made. Tickets may be secured at the Farm Bureau office, Chamber of Commerce Building, San Diego, or from Home Department, Center, or Commodity Department Chairmen.

A committee which includes Mrs. E. J. Mykrantz, Chula Vista, Mrs. Juanita Darwin of Fallbrook, Mrs. Mamie French of La Mesa Heights, Mrs. William Stoll of El Cajon and Mrs. I. G Greenleaf of Mountain Empire, will assist.

Stanley Conant Buys Fine New Tank Truck

Stanley F. Conant, dealer in Standard burner oils, has added a fine new Chevrolet tank truck to his equipment. It is the new type of cab-over-motor and was bought from the El Cajon Machine Co.

This machine is evidence of the remarkable development made in recent years in building tank trucks. It has eight speeds forward and booster brakes to take care of the added weight of his new tank trailer which the El Cajon company is making for him.

WIND'S WONDROUS WORKS

This Lakeside district is indeed a favored one. It is a happy center from which so many points of interest may be visited. Situated so charmingly between the mountains and the sea it has all around it places which have historical allure as well as intrinsic character.

The other day the lady upon whom we depend for bus service drove us to the ruins of the historical dam which the Mission Fathers built in the early days in a gorge of the San Diego River. It's no Boulder (or Hoover) dam, of course, but it is a sylvan spot that links us with a peaceful past. Later on one learned from a book kindly lent by Postmaster and Mrs. Helm, that there is a second dam in a gorge "where narrow shallow water skips over the stones." Doesn't that sound entrancing? Well that word applies also to the book which is entitled "Brown Hills." The author is Judy Van der Veer. She says the ruins of the second dam are in a more secluded place than the historical dam, and "no one troubles us.'" But she has given the secret away and she must not be surprised if others invade that seclusion. They too may wish to observe that "around the smooth stones the brown hills are tall and steep" and they may want to see "the group of stones that looks like a frieze of sculptured nuns or monks." That great architect, the wind, cuts wondrous figures in the hills.

The wind is not only a sculptor, it is a musician, as the author of "Brown Hills" records. She describes for us a horseback ride along the ridge above Oak Tree Canyon on the old Fortuna ranch. A line of telegraph poles marches with military precision along that ridge, across canyons and hills. "The winds on the ridge play upon the wires as on the strings of a great harp," declares Judy Van der Veer, "and there is always beautiful low music to be heard along the way." Her book is, as the publishers, (Longmans, Green and Co. New York) say, "a balm to weary humans." It reminds one of what Matthew Arnold said of the soothing voice of Wordsworth:

He laid us as we lay at birth
On the cool flowery lap of earth,
Smiles broke from us and we had ease;
The hills were round us and the breeze
Went o'er the sunlit fields again;
Our foreheads felt the wind and rain.
Our youth returned; for there was shed
On spirits that had long been dead,
Spirits dried up and closely furled,
The freshness of the early world.

ELECTRICITY HELPS

It's poetical and all that to be able to talk about how far a little candle throws its beams, but give us electric light. It doesn't drop grease all over the place nor flicker when somebody opens the door.

People who live in country places like Lakeside these days are lucky, as regards light, compared with the early settlers. The latter had to depend on lanterns and the moon for night light. And how much better served, in the way of fuel and stoves, are the farm women of today than those who preceeded them.

Of course life on a farm is not "all beer and skittles" - to use an ancient phrase -- but electricity has done wonders in the way of lightening labor and adding comfort.

Citizens of the world, accept the "glorious liberty of the children of God," and be free! This is your divine right. - Mary Baker Eddy.

He that would make his own liberty secure must guard even his enemy from oppression. Thomas Paine.

O LISTEN TO THE BAND

"O listen to the band, how merrily they play." Remember when that was a popular tune? And the boys in the band were favorites of the girls.

Doubtless many people in Lakeside have listened over their radios to the United States Marine Band, among others. The music comes from Washington and it always makes one think of the great affairs "along the Potomac" in which that band has had a part. As a matter of fact the United States Marine Band is older than the national capital. The organization celebrated its 141st birthday on July 11.

Established in 1798, the band was already two years old when it set out from Philadelphia to the new capital at Washington. The journey took two weeks. Think of that!

And think also of how much the band's concerts have done to please generation after generation. Thomas Jefferson loved that band and many other famous statesmen have heard and appreciated its music. Beaus and belles of a bygone age danced to its stately music; White House weddings have been enlivened by it. On more solemn occasions it played a final requiem for Presidents Harrison, Taylor, Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding.

Well, indeed, may the claim be made that the United States Marine Band has written an harmonious page in the musical history of our country.

AND YET -- THERE'S THAT CAT

Everybody knows that a cat can look at a king and now it seems that a cat can confound a professor. At any rate that's the view (very politely put) of Clem Whitaker and Leone Baxter, editors of the California Feature Service of San Francisco. They write as follows:

Addressing members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Stanford University, Dr. S. J. Holmes, zoologist, anthropologist, educator and author, expounded some arresting theories on conventional morality. His view is that most of the traits commonly condemned -- selfishness, cruelty, deceit, cowardice -- are part of man's biological inheritance from ages when primitive man lived wholly by the law of the jungle; and that the emotions of kindly sentiment, self-sacrifice and friendship are purely developments of human ethics and are not basically innate in nature, human or animal.

About the time Dr. Holmes was saying all that, a feature story "broke" in Los Angeles. A family there owns a huge 17-pound tomcat, named Sammy, and a tiny Pekingese dog, named Toy. Until recently, catlike and doglike, they were enemies. Then Toy slowly went blind. He stumbled about. In his dimming world, he found an unexpected friend. Big Sammy took over as a voluntary "seeing eye'" cat! Now, he steers Toy around; he protects him from other dogs; he waits until Toy has finished before he eats -- from the same dish.

Why did that big tomcat do that? Why did he soften toward the little dog when Toy became helpless? Perhaps, as Dr. Holmes maintains, true chivalry and charity aren't innate in nature, and are only a development of human ethics. Certainly, we wouldn't argue with an erudite scientist.

And yet -- there's that cat!

THE HEART REPLIES

There is in souls a sympathy with sounds;
And as the mind is pitched, the ear is pleased
With melting airs, or martial, brisk, or grave;
Some chord in unison with what we hear
Is touched within us, and the heart replies.
How soft the music of those village bells,
Falling at intervals upon the ear
In cadence sweet!

-- William Cowper

Gzddanyze. Queer word, isn't it and there are some queer doings going on there for that's how they used to spell Danzig, the city where warriors seem getting ready to dance a jig.

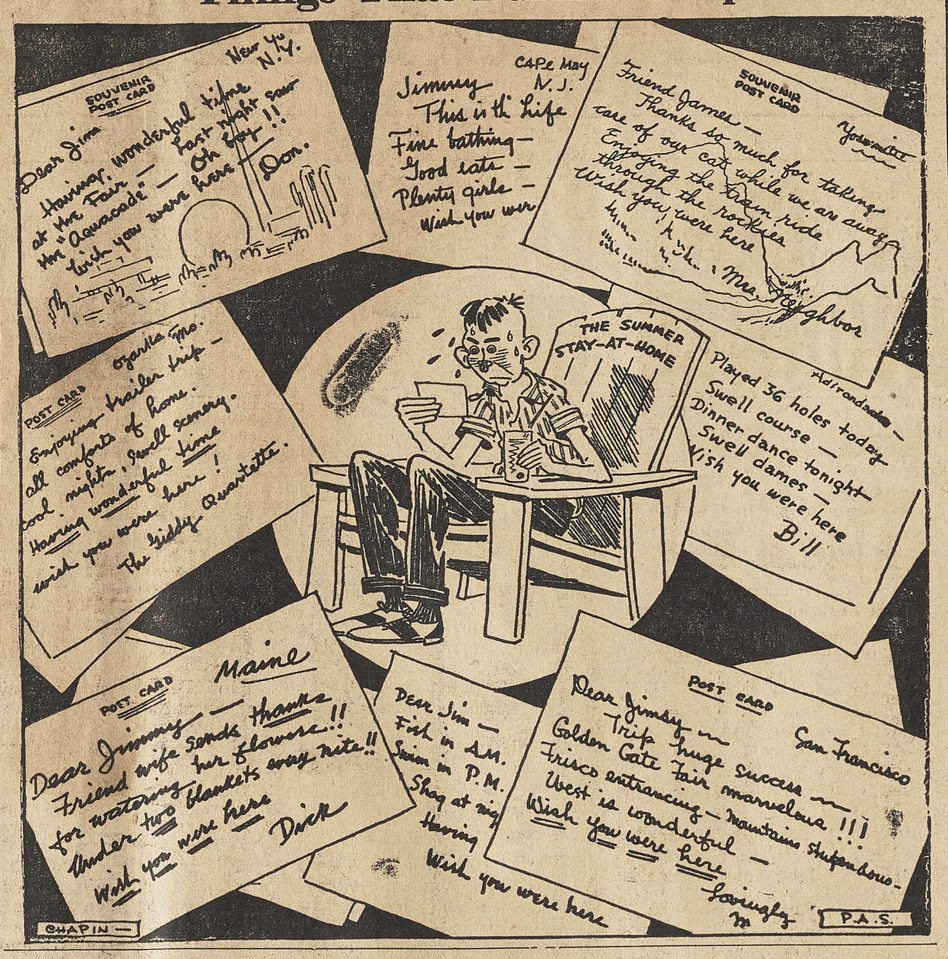

This is no hot air yarn. A new air-conditioning unit uses natural or artificial gas to provide both heat in winter and to run the cooler in summer.

"High school art is fun," says a headline. Well at any rate some of it is funny.

An eastern newspaper gravely informs us that an ancient Greek called the world round; just now it's in a stew.

Lakeside men can tell tall fish stories but they are amateurs compared with that Vancouver, B. C. Sun feller who said: "Yes, the fish was too small to bother with so I got two men to help me throw it back into the water."

Things That Burn Me Up

The Country Garden

By Margaret Tipton Wheatly
Chairman, Garden Section,
Lakeside Woman's Club.

PLANTING THE GARDEN

There are two aspects in planting a garden. First the emotional one which has to do with our being able to visualize our garden to be in which we enjoy fully every detail of our projected landscape, realizing that we actually create a landscape when we plant and grow a garden. And, second, the physical planting wherein we try to determine the growth requirements of individual plants. In the latter "planting" we should give due consideration to the size a plant may ultimately attain and provide adequate root room for it.

PROPER SIZE HOLES

The proportion of a good planting excavation to be refilled with properly prepared soil has been characterized by Miss Kate Sessions as "a 50-cent hole for a 5-cent plant" rather than the other way about as so often happens.

When planting a tree or shrub we need to consider the underground growth, remembering that it compares in size and shape closely to the portion growing above ground. Loosen an area of ground at least 3 feet square for a tree. If the soil is poor, remove it, and replace with better soil. Since most of the moisture here is applied at the top of the ground, and sinks down to the roots, the plant food should be applied toward the top of the hole. In the east, where irrigation is not so generally practiced, and where sub-surface moisture is encouraged to come to the top of the ground by frequent tillage, the plant food -- manure and compost, particularly -- is spaded into the soil and the rising moisture brings the food in solution to the root system.

OPENING CANS

The old saying that "there are tricks in all trades" applies forcefully to the planting of shrubs and trees from cans. The easiest procedure is: With a pair of strong tin snips make cuts on either side of the crimped seam of the can, extending from the top, or open end, clear to the bottom. Now, with the pliers, strip this seam down to the bottom by rolling it about the pliers just as you would open a sardine can. Then, if the can is at all rusted, the sides can be easily torn away from the bottom by the further use of the pliers. If it is not rusted sufficiently, just cut it away with the snips until there is an opening big enough to slide the plant (with its root system and compacted earth in tact) out through. The ball of earth should be slid out onto a spade and supported with one hand while "easing" it into the hole. Water thoroughly while the hole is only about half fillled with soil.

SETTING THE STAKE

If the plant is going to require a stake to support it, now is the time to give it one, not after the planting is done. Personally I detest unsightly plant stakes in the garden. I much prefer to set in a good strong "hub" such as surveyors use, leaving it about two feet above the ground level; then to this good foundation attach a smaller stake of suitable size and height with bailing wire or rope. As the plants grow taller, larger stakes may be fastened to this same "hub". This method is also much less expensive, because very small fragile limbs or tiny bamboo poles can be used to support the plants.. Trees, of course will require a stronger stake, but even these should not be allowed to depend too much upon the stakes for their support, but should be made to develop a good, strong "backbone." Sometimes, all that a plant needs is a splint near the top to encourage an upright growth habit. As the tree grows taller this splint may be moved upward. This frequent moving of the cords will prevent the bark-damage so apt to result where a tree is permanently "tied."

It is pleasant to know that the Cuala Industries in Dublin are to be continued, for we in this country are interested in the activities of this organization which was founded by two famous Irish women, the Misses Elizabeth and Lily Yeats, sisters of the late William Butler Yeats, the poet, and of Jack Yeats, the artist.

To perpetuate the industries a board of directors has been appointed and a new corporation formed to take over supervision of the Cuala Publications and the Cuala Press, and Miss Elizabeth Yeats will continue as secretary and managing director. Recently a few American friends formed the Cuala Associates to foster a broader appreciation in this country of the Cuala achievements, which include, besides exquisitely bound volumes, embroideries of great beauty.

This Week in WASHINGTON

By Publishers Autocaster Service Washington, July 17:

The fight over amending the neutrality law to make it more acceptable to the President will be the battle of the session, from present indications. Thirty-four Senators are lined up under the leadership of Senators Borah and Nye to fight to the last ditch against repealing the present law prohibiting the sale of arms and ammunition by Americans to nations at war.

The idea behind this is the belief that the United States was dragged into the World War because so many Americans had been making money in huge sums supplying the Allies with fighting material, and that if we allowed that sort of thing to go on we would be dragged into the next war.

The war alarm had begun to subside by early July, though the Government's observers abroad are reported to have warned the State Department against over-optimism.

How the provision in the new W. P. A. law requiring every worker to put in 130 hours a month for the money he or she gets will react upon their personal chances for re-election is a question which is worrying some members of Congress.

The situation disclosed by W. P. A. officials and Congressional investigators, that a large number of people on relief were drawing from $50 to $90 a month for working only fifty or sixty hours a month was too tough for Congress to swallow.

SHOCK TO MEMBERS

The W. P. A. was intended to provide work at bare subsistence wages for such as could not find jobs in private employment. The discovery that the "prevailing rate" of hourly union wages was being paid in many cities to W. P. A. workers came as a shock to many of the members, and the outlook is that the majority in Congress will stand pat against all the political pressure by labor organizations and W. P. A. worker organizations.

The death of the Secretary of the Navy, Claude Swanson, was not unexpected. Mr. Swanson was 77 and had been seriously ill for more than two years. Fortunately, the Assistant Secretary, Charles Edison, son of the great inventor, has recovered from the illness which kept him inactive for several months.

The largest naval construction program in all the nation's history is getting well under way, and much of the credit must be given to Mr. Swanson, who had been an advocate of a powerful and modern navy since his years of service in the House and the Senate on the naval affairs committees. That Mr. Edison is the logical successor to his place in the Cabinet is not proof, however, that he will be chosen by the President.

The belief that Germany has eyes on a part of the Antarctic Continent as a possible flying base is partly responsible for the President's order to Rear Admiral Richard Byrd to make another trip to the frozen South and stake out claims in the name of the United States to the territory which he discovered on his two famous voyages to the South Polar regions.

The idea is to establish at least three aviation bases for naval aircraft and personnel, as a further means of defending the Monroe Doctrine of no European sovereignty over any part of the Western Hemisphere.

Other Nations Have Claims

Some other nations have possible claims to Antartic territory, notably Norway, whose explorer Roald Amundsen, was the first to reach the South Pole and England, which has sent several expeditions into the frozen wastes.

Political observers here now leave all other Presidential candidates out of consideration until the President makes a definite move which will clearly show whether he wants a third term or not. All calculations of both parties hinge upon that decision.

There's really no need for extra "party expense" when you can prepare this appetizing ham loaf so economically—and so easily. It serves eight hungry people amply. And that cup of Carnation helps you "cut the corners" and still adds the food value of a full pint of whole milk.

1 lb. ham, ground
½ lb. veal, ground
½ lb. beef, ground
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup Carnation Milk
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
Celery salt
½ cup chopped onion

The Saga of a Home-Made Trailer; Texas to the New York World's Fair

A Texas journalist built himself a trailer, loaded in his wife and 11-year-old son and started on a 2,000 mile trek for the New York World's Fair with $50.00 in his pockets. His experiences are recounted in the following story:

By TOM CAUFIELD

(who covers police, fire alarms, boll weevils and all news in and about the Brazos Bottoms of Central Texas for the Waco Times-Herald).

Here is Tom Caufield's homemade trailer in which he, his wife and son traveled all the way from Waco, Tex., to see New York World's Fair.

WORLD'S FAIR, New York — Frances and the eleven-year-old and I have seen the Fair and all the folks back in Waco told us it couldn't be done on the Caufield bankroll. The speedometer on Ancient History II reads 2,000 miles from Fifth and Austin; the wallet is out $50, and we've got $10 left. I've just wired the boss for the $25 he promised me to get home on, and if the chewing gum and bailing wire on the trailer and jaloppy don't relax their holds during the homeward 2,000 miles, we shall have made the whole junket on $85.

We spent a little over $1.50 each per day on the Fair itself, counting admission at the gates. Thomas, the eleven-year-old and Frances, the woman who tells me how to drive, and I walked and walked and looked and stared, finally becoming convinced that the best parts of the Fair are free. We could while away two weeks here looking at the free shows, and never repeat and never suffer from what the slick paper writers call ennui. We are leaving only because a wolf is howling at a door bearing the coat of arms of a certain small town newspaperman in Texas.

Nothing Like the Brazos

We stood and gulped when we saw the illumination at the lagoon of nations last night. Nothing like that along the Brazos, nor anywhere else.

A lightning bolt hit a telephone post as our car-trailer combination passed it on the road to Knoxville, coming up. It smashed the post, splattered our car with splinters, made an outrageous noise, scared us stiff. We saw it all over again, free, at the General Electric show here. They made 10 million volts for us—BANG! and we thought we were back on the Tennessee highway in the storm.

We fought good roads and bad coming up. General Motors showed us all good in a panorama that 27,000 people a day look at. GM parked us in upholstered chairs, started a public address explanation from the chair arms, and showed us the highway system of 1960.

If it hadn't been for that roads system display, we might have thought, in the aviation building, that man was fixing to leave the ground for good; but GM gave us hope for the highways. We could hardly get the boy away from the aviation display. Instead of wanting to ride on the carnival gadgets, he wanted to go back and look at the model wind tunnels, the cross section of the Yankee clipper, and things like that.

Need for Adjectives

We heard the Voder. That's a contraption we had read about, a sort of talking typewriter. Pretty girl punches keys and make a combination of hisses and grunts that sounds like Charlie McCarthy at his worst, but is understandable.

I never was much on adjectives. The one adjective needed around here is "marvelous." Give me enough synonyms for that, insert them as needed, and that's the Fair.

There's a moving mural in the Ford building. Pistons, cogs, things like that fixed in the wall, all moving. Time for one of the synonyms. In the same building, walls hung all round with a one-piece yellow curtain made of spun and woven glass.

More free stuff; the City of Light, with 100,000 individual bulbs; the Forward March of America, showing how lighting has changed. They've got a fountain running over the exit of that building, and when I lost Frances and Thomas, by getting mixed up on a rendezvous, they waited an hour for me there, perfectly satisfied, while the fountain splashed outside.

They've got a real ship parked in a pond by the New England building. They've got life-sized toy monkeys climbing trees in a toy exhibit and real monkeys climbing on a rock inside the Frank Buck enclosure. The rock is higher than the bamboo walls, so you can see the monkeys without going in.

Escalators and Ramps

About transportation; this fair is great on saving shoe leather. It has to be, it is so big that unless there were a lot of escalators and moving belts the cobblers would have a field day at every exit. You go up into the Perisphere on an escalator, and ride around it on a moving belt; and there's the moving belt at the GM building. Everywhere you find ramps instead of steps, and the ramps are exactly calculated to ease your legs as you go up or down. Streets and walks are asphalt, and the buildings generally have rubber composition flooring. And if you want to ride, it costs a dime for a bus from any point on the grounds to any other point.

If your feet do get tired (and they oughtn't to often if you've got the right kind of shoes, which is important, especially to the women) you can stop in at any of the first aid stations and get a free foot treatment to ease them.

Now for the Tariff

Let's count the cost, after you get to New York. Figure you're in a trailer—that's $1 to get over the George Washington Bridge, which is the best way for a trailer; 75 cents a night at the trailer camp; a few cents for milk and whatever other groceries you need for eating at the camp; 25 cents toll over Whitestone Bridge for your car (leave the trailer at camp) and 25 cents toll back again (or ride a bus, fare ten cents each); 50 cents to park in the parking grounds at the Fair; 75 cents admission for adults, 25 cents for children; 25 cents each for the Perisphere, which is a must because it is the Fair's symbol; 10 cents for the Town of Tomorrow, which also ought to be a must for any householder, and gas and oil.

We ate dinner at one of many restaurants in the Fair grounds. My wife had chicken and mushrooms with coffee for 60 cents. I ate a salisbury steak with coffee for 60 cents, and lamb chops for the boy cost 75 cents. For lunch we had hamburgers and pie, which ran us 20 cents each. It costs a nickel for pop or root beer at any of a dozen stands. We got to the Fair for lunch one day and had dinner there that night. We had breakfast in camp next day, lunch at the Fair and pulled out late that afternoon for home.

Seeing New York

You can see something of New York while you're at the Fair, for the mere cost of gasoline. The night we arrived, we took a 50-mile drive across town, along the Hendrik Hudson Parkway and back from the Battery up Broadway to Times Square, then back to camp. We had a volunteer guide—one of the officials at the camp.

The policemen go out of their way to help a visitor. One of them talked to us for a half hour about things in general while we waited for an open-top bus next morning for a sightseeing trip in Manhattan. In fact, any New Yorker goes out of his way to help a Fair visitor.

We felt so much at home that when we parked our car to catch a bus to the Fair on our first day's visit, we forgot to make a note of where we left it; just walked away from it like we would have done in our own home town. And believe it or not, we found it when we came back in the rain—with the help of some of the passengers on the bus.

Bear in mind that the cost of coming to New York depends on how you are willing to come. We had a camp trailer, slept in it, using a trailer camp once, a cabin one night during a pouring rain, using school grounds twice with the permission of rural neighbors, and parking three times at filling stations. It took us six days to get here.

That $85 is an education worth thousands, for a boy of 11, and worth plenty more for his father and mother.—Reprinted from the New York Herald-Tribune.

Visitors to the Golden Gate International Exposition, Miss Gussie Raegener, tennis star, and Captain Eugene Merrick, at 85 youngest member of the G.A.R. in California, were photographed spinning yarns in the court of the California State Building, Exposition "host" building. More than 460 events have taken place in the State building, attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors. Captain Merrick hails from Los Angeles, Miss Raegener from San Francisco.

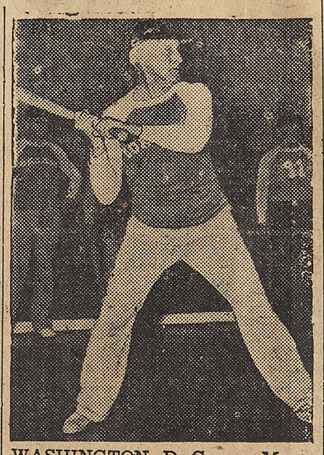

Villain of Backwoods Tales

Since the National Wildlife Federation's annual stamp series is to include a complete gallery of familiar mammals, birds, trees and flowers, one of America's best known beasts of prey has a place in the 1939 sheets. The cougar, also known as puma, panther, mountain lion and catamount, has a terrifying reputation, largely because of its blood-chilling voice. But the cougar does not prey on human beings, although a deadly enemy of deer. Morgan Stinemetz painted this cougar portrait that appears among the 80 Wildlife Week stamp subjects.

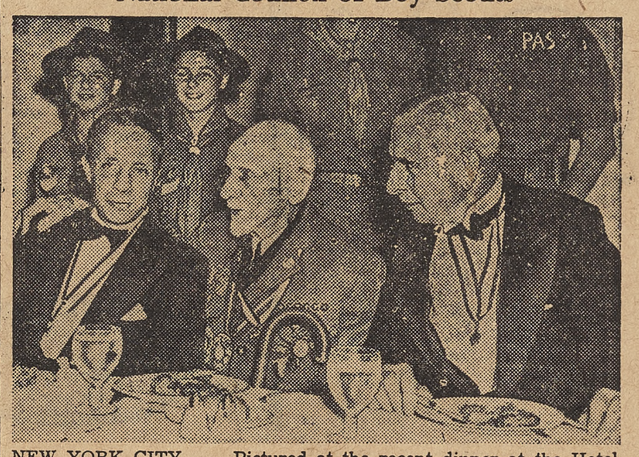

MIAMI, Fla. . . . More than 50,000 Miamians were visited by a mid-summer Santa Claus recently who brought the first of $4,000,000 in refund checks from the Florida Power and Light Co. — closing chapter in a hectic seven-year-long victorious fight by Mayor E. G. Sewell (above), to cut Miami's electric light and power bill one-third.

Farmer's Fearless Friend

Indian warriors sometimes fastened skunk skins to their heels to tell the world, "I run from no man." Skunks are valuable not only for their fur, but are, with moles, the only enemies of various species of burrowing plant pests. Skunks also are great mousers, and destroy the eggs of snapping turtles. Some species of skunk is found in almost every state. This skunk picture in the 1939 Wildlife Week stamp series is from the brush of Lynn Bogue Hunt, famous painter and illustrator.

SMART SLIP

This slip (8516) is especially designed to wear under the new dresses that hug you slimly at the waist, and flow to exaggerated fullness, flared or circular at the hem.

Another smart idea borrowed from the gay Nineties when underthings were frilly and feminine!

It has a beautifully fitted bratop that gives a trifle of support to your bust, and is cut to a low evening line in the back.

Make yourself a whole wardrobe of slips like this - omitting the ruffle on those you plan to wear with tailored things.

Treat yourself to some luxury materials - pure dye silks or satins, and lovely smooth linens to wear under cottons.

You can do it economically with the money you save by making your own.

PATTERN 8465 - For the young and petite who take their sports actively, this new design (8465) is as pretty and competent as it is easy to make (step by-step sew chart is included).

The play suit is broad-shouldered, small-waisted with square neckline and well-cut shorts, and it buttons conveniently all down the front. The bonnet is merely a wide brim, tied round your head to shade your eyes - and look charming.

Making this easy outfit will add a lot to your good looks and comfort during play hours. and subtract very little from your budget.

Denim, gingham, linen or percale are good materials for this Make the trimming bands of white or contrast.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The Golden Text is from John: "Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth."

Among the Bible citations are these verses from Matthew: "And he entered into a ship, and passed over, and came into his own city. And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth. And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house."

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "Truth is God's remedy for error of every kind, and Truth destroys only what is untrue. Hence the fact that, to-day, as yesterday, Christ casts out evils and heals the sick."

This Range Will Start Dinner On Time While Housewife Is On Shopping Tour

No need for this homemaker to hurry home to start dinner. She simply plans an "oven" meal before she leaves in the morning and, as shown in the picture, she sets the controls to "start" and "stop" the cooking at the proper time in the afternoon, depending upon the meal chosen. Arriving home at dinner-time, she will find a hot, ready-to-serve meal awaiting her. The range is a new all-electric model specially designed to operate at a surprisingly low monthly cost. It is made by the makers of the Frigidaire electric refrigerators. Five different heats on each cooking unit, a heating unit at both the top and bottom of the full-size oven, and smooth all porcelain exterior are standard equipment.

You've waited for this message-PLEASE READ IT!

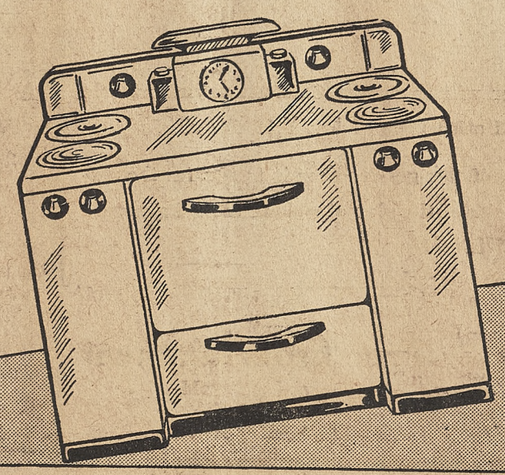

BECAUSE...Electric Cooking NOW COSTS ONLY ½ AS MUCH AS YOU THINK*

How long has it been since you "shopped" for an electric range? Years, maybe, but even if it were only a few months ago you'll now be pleasantly surprised at most recent improvements. Priced lower than ever, completely automatic and as fast as modern living demands. And most pleasing of all is the low combination electric rate for cooking and controlled water heating -- a step down to as low as 1c per kilowatt-hour.

Why not start tomorrow enjoying oven meals that practically cook themselves . . . give you more time out of the kitchen. Save with simple, thrifty deep-well dinners. Serve tender meats that don't shrink . . . taste better . . . because flameless radiant heat seals the juices in.

Dear Eleanor;

The Coronado Horse Show has stirred much interest around these parts. Mr. and Mrs. Streeter Blair and Suzette have taken a cottage at Tent City for the week and have spent much time watching the exhibits. The G. S. Clarks and family and Mrs. Lucy McKay were at La Jolla Sunday.

Bert Cooper and family, Ocean Beach, were weekend guests at the Henry Vanoni home at El Monte Park. I understand they had a very nice barbecue dinner for their guests. Clifton Johnson, son of A. W. Johnson, was another weekend visitor in this vicinity He brought Mr. Rothwell also of Pasadena with him. Mrs. C. W. Pierce was telling me that she is here from San Francisco for a two weeks stay with her mother, Mrs. Maric Fitzgerald.

In a recent letter from Jessie Beebe now of Burbank she told Mrs. B. R. Brown she was sailing for Australia. And Bill Miller said to be sure to bid her Bon Voyage for him. The Browns have been entertaining their daughter, Mrs. J.M. Beal, and granddaughter Marilyn of Auburn. Mrs. Beal has returned but Marilyn is expected to stay for awhile Roy Brown is home again from his stay in Auburn.

The John Lengs had as a guest on Sunday an old friend of theirs, Mrs. Maud McMillian of San Diego. Other San Diego visitors to Lakeside this week were Mr. Earl Allen and Miss Dana Murphy who spent the weekend at Mrs Edna Dillenbeck's home.

Dorothy Ann Conrad was a weekend visitor at Kathleen Haven's home in La Mesa. I heard they had a perfectly swell time roller skating Friday night. Henry Buttler has been away from the home town too. He was in the Imperial Valley visiting a cousin, Bill Buttler.

Mrs. LeRoy Skipper has gone to Boulder, Colo., to visit a sister. You knew, of course, that she had been visiting in Sacramento. And Mrs. Pearl Tharp who was a former resident of Lakeside and now lives in Bostonia, was a caller at Mrs. Fannie Coronas one day this week.

It was an unusual thing Mrs. Leslie Clevenger told me for her and Mr. Clevenger to get away by themselves, but they managed to sneak off to Pacific Beach for the week end. Their son, Donald, is at the Farm Bureau Camp as one of the assistant cooks.

Clyde Brown and Florence Griffith were visiting Florence's grandparents, the G. W. Conrads, over the weekend.

Charlie Pulley is on his vacation He is in Los Angeles and plans to visit the Fair in San Francisco before he returns to the home town.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Laws, Riverside, spent the week end at the home of Mrs. J. L. Laws.

Have you heard that Mrs. Nettie Evans was taken to the General Hospital in San Diego on Saturday? Her condition was fair the last we heard. We do hope she improves rapidly. I was talking to Mrs. W. C. Koppel on the phone on Tuesday and she is feeling much better, but still not up to par.

Mrs. Caroline Keck of Coronado spent a few days at her country home in the Lakeside district.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Stricklin spent Sunday in San Diego with their daughter, Louise. She is a student nurse at the Mercy Hospital. Their nephew, Paul Nie has just recently entered the Marine Service.

So long for now, Eleanor, dear, and please do write,

Love, Lorena.
